More time teaching.
A varied week at camp.

Sail Ready Academy brings lesson preparation, group activity history and everyday teaching records into one bilingual workspace for sailing clubs and schools.

Start with a quick group brief

Instructors choose the group's experience, skill focus, boats, weather conditions and available time. They review suggested activities and decide what fits their group and the club's operating rules.

Remember what the group has done

Planned and taught activities follow the group across linked camp sessions. Fresh suggestions leave those activities out. A coach can still repeat an activity deliberately and record why.

Connect the teaching day

Attendance, lesson plans, internal coaching notes and family learning updates stay together. Saved teaching records can use the offline sync queue, subject to the device and connectivity checks agreed for the pilot.

Let good ideas improve the programme

Clubs can contribute original activities and add authorized manual references. Resources pass through team review before approval. The current library contains original Academy drafts; no paid manual collection is included.

Illustrative activity history

Monday: Crew briefing challenge - completed.
Tuesday: Build the sequence - completed.
Next suggestion: Wind detectives - review with the instructor.

These are Academy original examples, not official CANSail lesson content.

A pilot your club can evaluate.

Begin with a demonstration and an agreed private pilot. There is no public learner registration or live payment checkout on the information website.

1. Review your needs

Bring your programme size, instructor workflow, language needs, existing system and the problems you want to solve. Use business information in the first enquiry.

2. Agree on the pilot

Review scope, fees, privacy responsibilities, support and success criteria. If migration is relevant, assess an authorized export and sample mapping before committing to a change.

3. Verify access and operations

A reviewed enquiry can become a private club workspace with an invited administrator. Invitations have delivery status and retry controls. Real learner use requires the hosting, privacy, recovery and support approvals.

What to compare with your current workflow

Check the group’s activity history, instructor planning time, deliberate repeats, English/French usability, attendance recovery and administrator onboarding. Decide from a club demonstration and verified pilot results; no blanket superiority or processing-rate savings are claimed.

Sail Canada and payment status

Academy currently records internal coaching and lesson delivery. It has no approved Sail Canada integration or endorsement and does not issue official CANSail certification. Official materials require authorized access and reuse permissions. Software fees and payment-processing terms must be agreed separately; live processing is not enabled.

Arrange a club demonstration

Eric Parkhill - privacy and operational contact eric@sailreadyservices.com
sailreadyacademy.ca
Please do not send learner lists, medical information or payment details with your first enquiry.